

Crafting a sound that pushes the line between elegance and aggression, Spider Rockets combines contemporary loud rock with classic rock elements and draws from many other styles and influences. The New Jersey-based band travels the sonic spectrum from dark and seductive to energetic to angry, yielding a sound that is both complex and pleasing to the ear. The band continues to wow audiences coast-to-coast in the United States with a dynamic live show and scream-a-long anthems.

The members of Spider Rockets are poised to take it to the next level with their latest offering, 'Spider Rockets.' With sessions going down at Trax East in their home state and with Eric Rachel (Allister, Atreyu, Black Dahlia Murder, Hatebreed, In This Moment, Misfits, Patti Smith Group, Saves the Day, Senses Fail) manning the boards, the group has issued unquestionably its strongest release to date – from both a compositional and performance standpoint. As icing on the cake, artwork for the CD packaging was created by Mark Weiss (Ozzy Osbourne, GNR, Disturbed, Nickelback) and Ioannis Vasiloupolos (The Rolling Stones, Lynyrd Skynyrd).

“We spent more time devoting to songwriting - writing, rewriting and scrapping songs along the way,” explains Helena, singer for the group. “Also, we tried to make the most of the time used in the studio by being prepared and analyzing stuff beforehand. We had previously recorded on tape - this time, no tape and no recording live as a band. Every instrument was recorded separately, which allowed for much more precision, higher quality performances and better overall sound.” Johnny, lead guitarist, adds “I think the quality of the recording and the music on this CD has taken us to a new place as a band and I’m very excited about it.” Dan, the group’s drummer, agrees “it was a phenomenal experience working with Eric. I feel between us and him in the studio, some great stuff happened.”

As with its past releases, the group plans to tour heavily behind this release. Dan says, “we can’t wait to have people experience this new CD both recorded and performed live.” Great things are in store for Spider Rockets.

“[Spider Rockets] hard work stands them in good stead. You get more into the album the more you listen, quality musicianship their ability to display diversity touching occasionally on metal or alt-rock sounds. Quality hard rock effort.”

“Spider Rockets are not just another female fronted rock band, they have a uniqueness about them that stands them in great stead amongst their fans. They manage to combine elements of goth, glam, rock, punk and alternative into a great sound and with the lush melodic yet adaptable vocals of Helena Cos they really are a force to be reckoned with.” - Glitzine

“Spider Rockets is one of those groups that is easy to like, the musicianship is there, the songs are there and they aren't afraid to get out there and tour. You have to appreciate what the band has to offer.” - Torch, Rock and a Hard Place
